

CONSTRUCTION OF A CLAUSE

In Davidson Will Sought By Administrator

Who Asks Court's Direction As To Procedure

Whose Sons Will Benefit Equally After His Death

Other Items Of Interest From The Court House

P. A. Berry, as administrator of Elizabeth Davidson, has brought an action against Louis Sullivan Cullison, Boulah Elizabeth Cullison and Mary Elizabeth Stickle, seeking construction of the Davidson will of which Matilda Davidson was executrix until her death.

The clause in doubt gives Matilda Davidson the use of the house and all property until her death when the share of testatrix in certain land shall go to Louis Cullison and Elizabeth Cullison, providing that testatrix and her sister, Matilda, shall not become charges. In such an event all debts and funeral expenses are to be paid and a monument is to be placed on grave of testatrix, the cost of which shall not exceed $100.

Plaintiff asks how he shall distribute balance of the estate after payment for the monument and as to whether the estate of Elizabeth Davidson will be liable for any indebtedness created by the sickness and care of Matilda Davidson, should latter's estate be insufficient.

VETERAN

Holds One-Man Parade, Celebrating Day He Joined Colors—Washington Gasp

Washington, Aug. 18—Through the busy traffic of Pennsylvania avenue yesterday, from the capitol to the treasury, marched a vision of a half century ago. Clad in a faded blue uniform, eyes front, shouldering the old-fashioned rifle with a tiny American flag fluttering from the bayonet, with marching steps he moved while thousands of passersby suspected they were seeing a ghost.

It was Sgt. John Kirk celebrating the fifty-fourth anniversary of the day he marched to join the Union colors. On his breast Kirk wore congressional medals for gallantry in action, service in Indian wars, and his badge as a past department commander of the Grand Army in Pennsylvania. He lives at New Cumberland, Pa.

The police decided there was no need to issue a permit for the one-man parade.

ELDER SHADE SOUNDS WELCOME

At Opening Of Seventh Day Adventist Camp

FAMOUS PHYSICIAN ARRIVES

Dr. Kress, After Thorough Study of Disease, Will Speak On Infantile Paralysis And Its Treatment—Many Campers Arrive

Newark, Aug. 18—The encampment of the Adventists is a new thing in the history of this city. We have had great picnics and large gatherings of people here, and we have had camp-meetings, but this camp-meeting outclasses everything of the kind we have ever had.

The camp opened last night. All day long a stream of delegates and campers and visitors had been pouring in, but everything was in readiness for them, tents pitched and floors with new lumber, and beds and chairs and other camp necessities, as they had been ordered, on hand. Every one of the living tents has an extra cover over it called a "fly," which acts the part of a double protection for either rain or sun.

Among the arrivals at the convention is Doctor D. H. Kress of Washington, D. C., medical secretary of the Columbia Union conference of Seventh Day Adventists, a conference of the conferences of the states of Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia, Virginia and West Virginia.

Doctor Kress is recognized as one of the great men of the denomination in medical work and evangelism. The doctor comes to Newark fresh from a personal investigation of the plague of infantile paralysis that is causing so many deaths in New York City, and arrangements are being made to have him speak to the campers and the people of Newark on the cause, prevention and treatment of paralysis, notice of which will be given later.

The Ohio conference has also its own medical department, the secretary of which is Doctor Wilford J. Venen of Youngstown, O. In the treatment of the sick, Seventh Day Adventists stand second to none of any religious body in the world. Their sanitariums, hospitals and treatment rooms are among the most thoroughly equipped in the world, and are established in all the five continents with a total asset of nearly four million dollars.

Last night the delegates were welcomed by the president of the Ohio conference, Elder E. K. Slade of Mt. Vernon, O., who spoke on "The Victorious Life."

BEATING THE THERMOMETER

(Kansas City Times)

It isn't the weather that is hot so much as it is the way you live that is hot. There are hot livers and cool livers pretty much the year around. If you know the art of hot weather housekeeping you can get along very comfortably. Do you realize, for instance, the difference it makes when things just look cool? Take the cloth off the dining table and see if it doesn't look cooler. Take the roast off and put a green salad in its place and see if it doesn't look cooler yet. There is coolness in summer furniture, too. Put away the heavy library table and substitute something in light wicker and see how the temperature of the room drops. Upholstered chairs should go, too, and light, hard surfaced ones be put in their place. Roll up the heavy rugs. You can have straw or grass matting if you like, but a bare polished floor is the coolest. Window draperies and all hangings should come down, and even pictures that are heavily framed should be removed. Everything suggestive of heaviness or stuffiness should be banished. This includes all manner of cushions and the cats that usually may be found sleeping on them. And if you are so unfortunate as to have anything like a plush piano stool in the room or a plush album, fire them first of all.

If you do these things right you can make the living room look as cool as the lounging deck of a ship. Of course, the room must be darkened during the day. Keep the sun out. Keep even the sun-heated air out. You can do that by closing the windows and lowering the curtains, and the awnings, too, if you have them. Don't be afraid that you will make the room hot by closing the windows. The cool air is inside during the day.

AN ANCIENT MYSTERY

(Topeka, Kan., Globe)

A girl with a stunning figure, big brown eyes, peachlike complexion and wavy black hair, lovely enough to become the bride of a Prince, stood around the Union Station today watching and waiting. Finally her face became illuminated; a spindly, weak-eyed, under-sized young man slouched in sight, homely enough to stop a clock. The two talked, and every once in a while the princess-like girl dabbed her eyes with a handkerchief. At last a train puffed in under the station shed. The young man waved an indifferent good-by to the beautiful creature who clung to him sobbing, until he boarded the train, and was carried, swiftly away. Is he her brother, her cousin, or her uncle? No, he is her beau. Girls are the funniest things in the world.
